

depositing an electrode material on said semiconductor layer using umbrella-shaped portion as a mask; and processing said electrode material to form an electrode at an interval from and edge of said protective film, wherein the protective film is apart from the electrode over the semiconductor layer.